

Board Of Directors

Kevin Caserta, Board Chairman

Kevin became the first Chief Medical Officer of Providence Centralia in July of 2010. Within his work as chief medical officer he serves as a physician liaison, participates in quality and patient satisfaction work and strategic planning. Along with others, Kevin had a vision for a faith-based clinic serving Lewis county, and continues to make this passion a reality. He received his medical schooling at Ohio State University. Kevin is married to Jennifer Caserta who is a practicing pediatrician in the Centralia area, and they have two children.

LeRoy Junker

LeRoy Junker has spent more than 25 years as the Chief Financial Officer for various for-profit and non-profit entities, and he has operated his own consulting firm. Mr. Junker is a Certified Public Accountant and received his MBA from Eastern Washington University. He is a teaching elder at Centralia Bible Chapel, and has two grandsons who he plans to teach about sports, the Bible, investing and computer games.

Sheri Keahey

Sheri Keahey has worked in maternal child health for the past 26 years as a staff nurse, staff educator and nurse manager. She has taught at the Centralia College nursing program since 2004. She received her BSN from Seattle Pacific University and a MSN from Pacific Lutheran University. Sheri has been married for 29 years, and has three children.

Dave Little

Dave Little is the Medical Director for Valley View Health Center, the region's Federally Qualified Health Center. He has been a part of the Valley View team since 2006. David has also served as an emergency room physician for National Emergency Services in underserved areas. His medical training was completed at the College of Osteopathic Medicine and Surgery in Iowa. Dave is married and has a son. He is a part of the St. John's Episcopal Church choir, and also enjoys hang gliding, skiing, running and cycling.

Jami Lund

Jami Lund is a policy analyst for the Freedom Foundation, a nonprofit policy research organization. He has worked on behalf of public officials, community awareness and sound public policy for twenty years. Jami received a master's degree in public policy from Western Washington University, and has also worked as an educator in a small, private school. He has been married since 1987 and has three sons. Jami is a lifelong drummer.

Renate Starroff

Renate Starroff is a family therapist and opened her private practice, Northwest Family Therapy, in 2003. She received her master's degree in clinical psychology from Antioch University, and is a member of the American Association of Christian Counselors. Renate and her husband, Jeff, have five children and a handful of grandchildren. She dreams of farming on a family ranch in North Dakota.
